

converting the digital photographic image to a second format; transferring and storing the digital photographic image in the second format to a second memory; and performing one or more second operations on the digital photographic image in the second memory.

---